James A. Felton III

As SUNY Cortland's chief diversity officer, the ultimate goal for James A. Felton III is to make the campus more welcoming to people from different races, religions, social backgrounds, sexual and gender identities and abilities.

"In this world of globalization, it's important that we promote cultural as well as global competence in preparing graduates to live and work in a changing and complex world," said Felton, who reports directly to President Erik J. Bitterbaum.

Felton's interest in diversity began when he was a student at McDaniel College in Westminster, Md., with a focus on issues facing the deaf.

He has served since 2015 on the editorial board of INSIGHT into Diversity Magazine, higher education's oldest and largest diversity publication, and co-wrote a newly released book, Inclusive Directions: The Role of the Chief Diversity Officer in Community College Leadership.

Since 2014, Felton has been a member of the National Advisory Council for the National Conference on Race and Ethnicity. Felton last fall participated in the White House Convening on Diversity and Inclusion in Higher Education.

He has more than two decades of experience in helping colleges become more diverse, inclusive and equitable and is pursuing a doctorate in global leadership specializing in academic administration at Indiana Institute of Technology in Fort Wayne.
